BIO

Olya is in her third year at Samara State Aerospace University. She herself is from Samara, and still lives at home with her family. Olya comes from a Christian family and grew up attending church, though it wasn’t until she was 16 years old that she made her own personal decision to follow Jesus.

She takes her faith very seriously, and is quite involved in her church. She desires to share with others about what it means to follow Jesus, but isn’t always capable of putting that desire into practice. Though Olya wants to see God use her, she struggles to connect well with her non-believing groupmates at the university. She has tried to take the initiative to share the gospel in the past, and has been very discouraged at the lack of positive response.

Olya spends between three and four hours per day online – primarily on her Android smartphone. She also has a notebook computer, which she uses mostly for completing class assignments. Olya is very active on a number of social media platforms. It isn’t a problem for her to move from platform to platform, depending on the purpose and relationship. VK is the center of her social media identity, but Instagram is where she spends the majority of her time.

Olya uses a few online tools to help her grow in her own faith – mostly a Bible app, as well as some sermons from a YouTube channel. She tries to use her status post as a means to initiate spiritually, but doesn’t see much in the way of a response. Thus, she uses digital resources to help grow her own personal relationship with God, but not as an effective ministry tool to reach others.
